DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 to 5, 8, 9, 11, 14 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Huang et al (Applied physics letters).

The Huang et al reference teaches a method of producing a layer on a substrate, note entire reference. On a first substrate, with a lattice mismatch, a relax layer is grown, note page 1267. The layer can be silicon-germanium and a thickness of less than 5 um. The substrate can be silicon, note page 1267. Then an ion implantation is done using hydrogen to create a damaged area. A second substrate is bonded to the grown layer. The second substrate is then separated from the first substrate taking the grown layer with it, note figure 1. The resultant structure can then have further growth on it.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 6, 7, 10, 12, 13 and 16 to 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Huang et al.

The Huang et al reference is relied on for the same reasons as stated, supra, and differs from the instant claims in materials deposited, and processing conditions. However, in the absence of unexpected results, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to determine through routine experimentation the optimum, operable materials to be deposited and processing conditions in the Huang et al reference in order to create a specific device, using different materials, and removing defects by annealing and the process conditions.
